Hello Potential Sponsors!

SheBOS is an endeavor on behalf of women from universities all around Boston to host the largest all-female and non-binary hackathon in the world. For 36 hours, more than 1,000 female developers, designers, builders and change makers from high schools and colleges around the country will join together to build new applications, websites, and hardware projects.

Our mission is to bring together women interested in computer science, and provide them with opportunities to explore the tech industry in an inspiring, encouraging, and energizing environment. We, the SheBOS leadership team, are committed to ending the gender gap in technology, and we hope you are too!

SheBOS will be held February 16th to 18th, 2018 on Boston University's Charles River Campus. The theme of the event is female empowerment, but the hacks themselves will be centered around multiple topic areas such as healthcare, sports, politics, and environmental issues.

SheBOS will enable your company to connect, recruit, and recieve live feedback from women at schools around the country. We will provide maximize exposure with minimal effort from you. Sponsors at SheBOS will have the opportunity to interact directly with our large pool of talented young women via tech talks, freebies, branded prizes, and more!
